NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY

Satisfies the GEP Humanities requirement.

What exists? What is right? How do we know what we know? Is there a God? Philosophy deals with these topics—and much more—using a distinctive method. Philosophy above all focuses on the reasoning behind claims and assumptions. It is concerned with what reasoning is good and why. In this course, we will explore philosophical methods and topics by examining scenarios from evil demons to the existence of God, from the nature of morality to the nature of the mind, and more.
